Surrounded by weeping relatives and frianda, sha peacetuily breathed har lifa away, and passed out from earth forever, in the prime of a glorious womanhood. How useleas, how empty, how unfeeling to those who have levad and lost, is a panegyric upon the ilead. Their virtues live; the beauty of womanhood and the splendor of manhood, ara both ouried in a common grave, and lost ferever to these who dwell on earth. Of the wife and mother, who has just been called up higher, one can say, who knew and loved her well, that God is als infinite power, could create an one-faithful and better mother; and the same God in His infinite power, could create an one-faithful and better mother; and the same God in His infinita knewledge, can aloue fathom the griaf, and measure the incomparable loss of her unhappy family. How deep the gloom. How dark and bitter the night which broods ever a family so stricken and so desolate. One case of forth and look on the earth once so beautiful and hright, and hear the footfall of gathering milduight, and see the weeping attact of the city.

AMUSEMENTS.

The following notice of Heucke celcbrated Pat Rooney'e company is from the Cincinnati Commercial.

"There Isn't a funnier man in the variety profession than Patillooney As the stage carleature of the comic As the stage caricature of the comic frishman he cannot be anypassed. Neture has been prodigal in endowing him with every requisite for access in this particular. It is face requires little or no "make np," and his natural brogue needs little emphasizing, but when he has donned his atage toggery, and marches from the winge with that peculiar awagger that so many Irlah singers try in vain to imitate, he is simply immitable, and the lower floor vice with the "Gods" in fairly shouting their appreciation.

Commercial:

A good audlence enjoyed a delightful avening of Burtesque and Extrav-aganza at the Opera House, on the aganza at the Opera House, on the Occasion of the first appearance of the Patinfinders. The pertormance is one of many phases, and touchoe the risibles of the looker-on with countless drolleries and tunny incidents. "Ecraps" was the name of the mixture presented has night; it is a listory of little the stream of the stream of the little stream. of a party of two ladles, two gcutle-men, and a fifth wheel in the torm of a fudicrons black African attendant. a indicrons black African attendant. When they first appear it is at the steamboat landling, and discovering that they have more than two hours to walt, they decide to pass the time in songs, choruses, plenicing and elscellaneous fun. The two hours and a half of waiting covers the whole affair, and the curtain does not fall until the close. Each one of the five contributes a big armful to the merit of the entertainment. The singing of the entertainment. The singing and the lumitetions were the chief features. An incidental exhibition before the excursionists brings in the wonderful nerobats the "Milton Jaspera," who perform apparently im-possible feats, and are received with great applause. The stage actings and appointments have been carefully perfected. The steamboat is a mechanical success. The l'athfinders are to amuse us again to-night. The company will abow bere to-morrow night. Tickets at the usual place and prices.

Our people will be delighted to know that they will be visited by Examiner makes this complimentary regardless of cost, allusion to the troupe, and Miss Put. nam especially: KATIR PUTNAM.

No troupe that has visited Owens-boro this season has given such uni-versat antisfaction as the combination headed by the bright, polished little artiste Miss Katle Putnam. Every member of the company is good, and both "Leua" and "Two Balies of the Wood" were rendered with a degree of excellence that was indeed refresh-ing. "Leua" is the most "taking" piece of the two, because more scope is given Miss Putnamitor the display other extraordinary abilities. "Two other extraordinary abilities. "Two Babes of the wood" is a new play, and had its second representation on any stage Tuesday night. With some fow trimnings and additions it is bound to become a success. The company appears in Evansuille to-inight. Miss Putnam will probably pay us a retern visit shortly on a large guarantee, and produce her two greatest successes "Old Ceriosity Sbop" and "Faechou."

We want to close out the tatest styles.

We want to close out the their accounts at the above goods by the long once, thereby enable us to settle up the affairs of the old firm as soon as possible.
